

ABSTRACT

A system for delivering sterile fluid to a patient, while preventing cross-contamination, in which flow interrupting 5 means are provided which basically create regions where no fluid exists in the comprehensive or over-all quality of material that is flowing from a fluid source to a patient.